ABOUT CLASSICAL EDUCATION

It's an educational system that has produced some of the finest minds in the world -- from St. Augustine and Patrick Henry to Albert Einstein, Thomas Edison, Thomas Jefferson, Marie Curie and many others.

Classical education is a method of teaching built on centuries of proven techniques that prepare students to become self directed learners who can think for themselves.

In classical education, teaching is structured according to the natural stages of child development. This enables students to gain knowledge, understanding, and wisdom at age-appropriate stages as they progress through the curriculum. The results are simply phenomenal, with each grade at PCS regularly scoring in the top 15 percent on national standardized tests.
